OBITUARY

On October 9, 1967, God released a jewel to Ressie and Delvin Cameron, Sr. Because God chose to deliver only one precious gift to Delvin's parents he was most precious in their eyes.

Accepting his role as the only child, Delvin did all that he could to please his family. He knew that his mother and father desired that he serve God, so he gave his life to Jesus at an early age. He also knew that they wanted him to be active in church, so he attended Sunday School and church services regularly.

As he grew older his wish to please his parents was only surpassed by his yearning to please God. Delvin developed a special love for God's word and His work. Delvin joined the Singspiration choir where he rendered his talent to the Lord in song. Our Father blessed Delvin with a lovely voice, and he used it to minister to God's people, both while leading songs and singing with the tenor section.

Delvin felt that no distance was too far for him to travel in order for him to fellowship with the saints and to worship with God's people. Often, he would ride the bus for two hours one-way to take part in a church service or a choir activity.

After joining the United States Air Force January 28, 1987, he left basic training at lackland AFB San Antonio and orientation Kiefer AFB Mississippi with a mind to continue his contributions to the Lord's work while serving the United States government. After arriving in Plattsburg AFB New York, he helped to start a gospel choir. Delvin, like his mother, loved music and was an inspiration to the military personnel as he participated in the newly formed choir and sang solos in the chapel services from time to time.

Delvin achieved his greatest ambition which was to let his life count for Jesus. When he met his father at the San Francisco International Airport several days ago, he said, "Dad, one of my greatest concerns in coming home this time is to encourage the young people who have left the Lord to return to Him."

Delvin thought that his friends would be won to Christ through his ministry, but God chose to draw them through the memory of his life and through his homegoing.

Delvin is now at peace with the Lord. His last purchase was $100 dollars worth of spiritual records and cassettes, but Delvin will never play them on his stereo. He will not need to because he now lives with the chief musician who is the source of all music. Delvin now waits to sing with the heavenly choir when that great concert begins. His utmost desire is that all of his friends and loved ones left behind will prepare to sing with him.

Delvin's last song, which chimed through the melody of a saved life, is "HOW I GOT OVER".
